THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION.

VOL. XXI.

WARRENTON, October 13.—[Special.]—Major McGregor, the slayer of J. M. W. Cody, is now safely confined in the Augusta jail, while the remains of his victim have been laid under

The burial occurred this afternoon. The day opened with a bright, warm sun, a cloudless sky and a pleasant atmosphere— just such a day as would tempt the farmer to leave his home and come to town to hear the story of the killing. Before the forenoon was half gone the horse rack around the public square was surrounded by horses, mules, wagons and buggies, while the streets were ged with planters, eagerly discussing and attentively listening to the stories of the kill-

The crowded streets indicated a day of work

The place where the killing occurred attracted more attention than any other point initown, and about it there was a large group constantly. The table upon which Cody was leaning when McGregor began shooting had been taken away, but with that exception the place was unchanged from what it was when the shooting occurred. Upon the plank sidewalk there

WERE BLOOD STAINS IN STREAMS and in spots and upon these stains many eyes were rivitted during the day. The blood came from the wound in the neck in torrents and flowing on the sidewalk was absorbed by the sand in the absorbed by the sand in the street. The pool was a large one and it was so unsightly that a quantity of unstained sand was spread upon it soon after the body had been removed. Then during the night or the early hours of this morning some one moulded that sand into the shape of a grave.

The grave was about six inches long and was tion of everybody. Under that mound was down the street was the lifeless body of the man from whom that blood came. The grave was allowed to remain throughout

No one was disposed to disturb it.

Everybody appeared to entertain a supersti-tious horror of it. And beside it the good qualities and the bad ones, too, of the dead man and the one who took his lite were discussed.

Then, too, the causes of the killing, mediate and immediate, were talked about. And some of the stories were sensational.

A LETTER IN A POCKET. During the day Mrs. Dubose's name was frequently mentioned in connection with the killing. In fact her name was in the stories as were the names of Major McGregor and Mr. Cody, and by many she was looked upon as the real cause of the homicide. The story emanating from McGregor was not credited, neither was the one told by Cody.

Cody's friends especially were inclined to look upon his cousin as the cause of the killing, and many of them were unkind enough to assert that she should be required to bear her part in the sensational episode.

But the members of the family did every thing possible to keep her name out of the case.

This, however, was impossible, and before dark settled upon the town many interesting stories had been related in which Mrs. Dubose's name was

That statement contains many other stories equally interesting -stories in which Mrs. Du se plays no part. Several months after Cody had left War-

Several months after Cody had left Warrenton the iron safe in the Georgia railroad depot was blown open and robbed of a sum of money. Soon after the robbery occurred it was quietly hinted around that CODY HAD BLOWN THE SAFE and carried away the money. The same rumors asserted that Cody did not blow the safe because he wanted the money, but that he did the work in such a manner as to create the impression that McGregor had robbed his own safe to hide a shortage or to defraud his companyiin some way. The rumors, towever, were laughed at when they were first circulated. No one who knew Cody thought for one instant that he would rob a safe for any purpose whatever, while McGregor's friends knew that he was not short with his company in any way, and that he was too honorable to defraud it.
Today there is another story about that safe

Today there is another story about that safe And it will be found in that paper of Cody's.

And it will be found in that paper of Cody's.

The rumors of the robbery reached Cody, and when he heard that he had been charged with the work, he at once concluded that McGregor was trying a new scheme to injure him and began an investigation. That investigation was abandoned only when Cody satisfied himself, so he writes, that McGregor had done the work, made good the loss and charged the crime to his enemy for the purpose of further hurting him. The rumors of Cody's connection with the safe blowing were so cautiously started that no one ever suspected that McGregor had a hand in it.

Cody has about as many friends in Warren county as McGregor, and they have determined to prosecute the prisoner with an energy. Those of his friends who talk about the case assert that he would have been acquitted when the case pending against him was called, and that he was ready for trial at the term of the court which has just closed, but that the trial had to be postponed on account of the absence of his leading attorney, Colonel Lewis. Outside of that statement of his they have a strong story of justification for the assault be made upon McGregor and a good defense, "You see," said one of them, "when Cody realized what he had done he admitted it trankly and openly. He did not go to McGregor and confess the offense and ask him to keep it quiet, as McGregor says, but he told it

The Warrenton Traged Now Dying out the streets. Now, McGregor says he did not know that Cody was his assailant until some time afterward. That is not true. He knew it at once, and when detectives were hired to work the case they suddenly gave it up and went away—went away because McGregor sent them away. McGregor says he did not know that Cody was his assailant until some time afterward. That is not true. He knew it at once he cause Cody told him. You see the people were indignant at the shooting and were about to have a negro boy who had been arrested for the work. Cody was not the man to see an innocent person suffer and went to McGregor, saying:

innocent person suner and who is a proper saying:

"'Mack, that boy didn't shoot you. You know who shot you. You know that I did it, and you know why I did it.'

"'Yes, Jim,' answered McGregor, 'I know that you shot me."

"'You know, too, Mack,' he said, 'if it is known that I shot you and the cause is not known, it will ruin me and my family, but if the cause is known it will ruin you and your family.'

the cause is known it will ruin you and your family.'

"McGregor then agreed with Cody, and they made a compact to keep it secret. Cody didn't care who knew that he fired the shot, and simply suggested the silence to save McGregor and his family. To show that he did not care when McGregor made it known that Cody did the work, Cody admitted it. But here Cody showed himself the more honorable of the two. McGregor agreed to keep the matter a secret, but told it. Cody agreed not to tell the cause, because it would agreed not to tell the cause, because it would RUIN M'GREGOR'S FAMILY, and Cody has kept his word. Then McGregor went further. He found that Cody was anxious to avoid a prosecution, because that would divulge the cause, and took advantage of it, to extort money from Cody. He made Cody agree to leave the town and to sign a paper to remain away. He then made him agree to pay that negro $500, and to pay Ed Cody $1,500. Ed Cody was marshal of the town, and was not on friendly terms with his cousin. Cody signed the papers hoping in the future to be able to defeat McGregor's schemes, without exposing certain hoping in the future to be able to defeat Mc-Gregor's schemes, without exposing certain parties, and he would have succeeded had he lived. McGregor knew that too, and when he learned that Cody had acquired enough evidence, and had the facts upon which to base a defense and was going to stand trial, McGregor began to frighten. A trial was the very thing he did not want. It would bring to surface things he wanted kept below and rather than have the exposure which was a certain consequence he made up his mind to kill Cody—to murder him. That is just what it was, for Cody was shot down in cold blood without any chance to defend himself."

defend himself."

ANOTHER FRIENE TALKS.

"To show you how Cody felt," said another friend, "he went to McGregor one day saying:

'Mack, I feel like you have not forgiven me for that shooting. Now, I've a proposition to make you. I'il give you your pistol and we'll go into a room together. I'll ge unarmed. Then in there I'll tell you why I shot you and if you ain't satisfied start in and shoot me.'

"Then again he gave him another chance, saying:

saying:
"'Mack, you ain't satisfied. Now, I'll tell you what we'll do. I'll go out with you and give you two shots at me to square the old grudge. Then if you don't get me we'll shoot

"But he wouldn't do that even."

"But he wouldn't do that even."

Cody's attorney, Colonel Lewis, leaving for the east, put Cody in a bad position. If he really wanted a trial he could not get it with his leading counsel absent and if he did not want it, as many suspect, he was compelled to get out. He was in town last Sunday but went town want it, as many suspect, he was compelled to get out. He was in town last Sunday, but went away that night. Since then he has been only a few miles from town. When court adjourned Thursday Cody, of course, was a free man until the next term of the ceurt, and there was no necessity for his remaining in the country. On Saturday morning he decided to come to town, and about nine o'clock drove in with Mr. English. Two miles from the city he stopped to see a sister, who begged him not to go to town, saying:

"I'm afraid you'll be killed. McGregor has made his threats against you."

"No, he hasn't," answered Cody, "MoGregor won't hurt me for I'm in the hands of the Lord."

Cody then kissed his sister and getting the Lord."

Cody then kissed his sister and getting into the buggy drove away. Mr. English drove into town from the south and at the northeast corner of the square Cody got out of the buggy. McGregor was standing on the sidewalk across the street at that time. Cody left the buggy and walking down the sidewalk to English's store, leaned against the table. Just then McGregor came across the street and the shooting occurred. The positions of the parties at the time of the shooting is shown in this diagram.

THE INQUEST.

When Cody's last breath was gone there were one hundred people around the place. The body was then placed upon the table against which Cody had been leaning when killedgand carried to Mr. Swain's residence where the inquest was held. Immediately after Cody's death his wife and children were sent for. His partner, John L. Palmour, of Gainesville, was also notified and reached Warrenton this morning.

McGregor's departure for Augusta last night, was not generally known until this morning. Then it created quite a sensation. His friends felt relieved because he was away, but Cody's relatives did not like it—some of them saying:

"He could have remained here. No one would have hurt him, and every friend Cody has would have protected him."

THEY THINK HE WILL BE FREE.

McGregor's friends, and they are many, are certain that he will secure an acquital.

These expressions, without doubt, typify the impressions of the entire party of strangers. They saw the islands, the upper rapids, the falls from both sides, the whirlpool and its rapids, and also

After dinner on the American side, the party was driven to the Canadian side late in the afternoon, where an informal supper was tendered at the Clifton house by Mr. Erastus Wimans.

MR. WINDOM SPRAKS.

At the close of the supper Mr. Windom said that the trade of both countries on whose border they stood, had been restricted by an arbitrary custom line, which stood like a barbet wire fence between business interests with each other. A commercial reunion of all American countries would be a great thing, and this was the object of the congress.

Senor, Guzman, of Nicaragua, said the proper object of the congress was to bring all Americans closer together. Nothing would do more in that line than the ORR. HAMILTON'S REPORT.

In Which He Treats of the Yellow Fever Epidemic in Florida. WASHINGTON, October 13.—The annual re-port of Dr. Hamilton, supervising surgeon-general of the marine hospital service, shows that the work of the service is steadlly increasing. During the fiscal year ended June 30th last, 50,000 seamen were lishment of the service. The students of yellow fever and those interested in the establishment and maintenance of inland quarantines and camps of refuge, will be interested in the study of the roles and regulations prepared by the supervising surgeon-general for the guidance of officers in charge of those different measures of relief, and by the perusal of the many valuable contributions from the officers of the corps who saw active service in the Florida epidemic. The article of Dr. Guitas calls special attention to the symptoms of the disease, and is expected to be of great value in future, in clearing up doubt and uncertainty which attend the arrival at a definite conclusion in the first few cases which precede an epidemic. Dr. Faget, in charge of Camp Perry fever hospital, has an illustrated chart article on the "Treatment of Yellow Fever."

Surgeon Huuton, in command at Camp Perry, contributed a sketch on the establishment and conduct of this first camp of disease and observation known in the history of epidemics. Unlike most experiments, Dr. Hamilton says this camp fully justifies the most sanguine expectations of its originator. Surgeon Huuton has explains the active measures taken upon the appearance of the fever at Uptonville and Blackshen, and which undoubtedly prevented the disease from becoming epidemic there, which, no denth, prevented the disease from becoming epidemic there, which, no denth, prevented the disease from becoming epidemic there, which, no denth, prevented the disease from becoming epidemic there, which, no denth, prevented the disease from becoming epidemic very last in the prevented and planette," in which he clearly shows the manner of the introduction of the fever into Tampa by snuggle, sin 1887, its hibernation in that city during the ensuling winter, and its mode of transportation to other points during the following spring and sumlishment of the service. The students of yellow fever and those interested in the establishment

Dr. Sternberg, of the army, contributes a voluminous paper giving an investigation of the methods adopted in Mexico and Brazil for the prevention of adopted in Mexico and Brazil for the prevention of adopted in Mexico and Brazil for the prevention of adopted in Mexico and Brazil for the prevention of adopted in Mexico and Brazil for the prevention of adopted in Mexico and Brazil for the prevention of adopted in Mexico and Brazil for the prevention of adopted in Mexico and Brazil for the prevention of the inyellow fever by inoculation. RAHWAY, N. J., October 13.- What was one IMPRESSED WITH THE AWFUL SCENE

RAHWAY, N. J., October 13.—What was one of the nearest approaches to a frightful accident in the annals of railroading occurred here this morning to the fast Philadelphia express train on the Pennsylvania railroad, due here at 11:13 a. m., The train is made up of two combination parlor cars and-three coaches, and runs at a high rate of speed. It passed the main depot here today four minutes late, running at the rate of sixty miles an hour. The engine, just as it reached the east end of the long bridge east of Main street, jumped the track and was followed by five cars. The crash as THE WHOLE TRAIN LEFT THE TRACK was terrific, and was heard by people at the depot a quarter of a mile west of where the accident occurred. The train ran along the ties for two-hundred feet, when the couplin broke between the cars and each of the cars shot in a different direction, tearing up the rails and ties, and digging into the stone ballast roadbed. There are four tracks at this point, and the cars were twisted around in such a way as to completely wreck the roadbed and the cars themselves. When the cars finally stopped the passengers, who were naturally badly frightened, came out of the wregked cars unable to comprehend what had happened. The most remarkable thing is that although the train was running at SIXTY MILES AN HOUR, thing is that although the train was running at SINTY MILES AN HOUR, the only persons injured were two ladies, who were cut by flying glass. DeWolfe Hopper, of McCaul's Opera company, was a passenger on the train, and received a severe shaking-up, as did all of the passengers. The accident was due to the spreading of the rails, which were new, and, it is said, had not been properly spiked by the section men who laid them. Traffic was delayed all the aftermoon, while an army of workmen was busy in building a new roadbed, the old one having been torn up for a distance of 500 feet by the derailed train.

They Came Together.

CINCINNATI, October 13.—At 9 o'clock last

Bradbord, October 13.—At Davis Switch, a small village, thirteen miles from this place, the dwelling of Fatrick Daily was burned, and his wife and three sons aged thirteen, eleven and nine respectivaly were roasted in the fames. At 6 o'clock last night while the Daily family were at supper, the father went to the stove to partly turn off the gas. He unintentionally shut the throttle tight and on reversing it agelu the house was filled with gas and an explosion followed, and in an instant the outire house was in flames.

The three boys and the mother fell prostrate on the floor, overcome by the heat and flames. Mr. Daily rushed out of the house to call for assistance, but alle efforts to save the unfortunate immates were futile. The house was entirely consumed in a few minutes. The charred and blackened bodies presented a most sickening sight. Mr. Daily isseverely but not faually burned about the head and face, and is almost crazed with grief.

spread Than at First Reported.

CHICAGO, October 13.—It was about midnight when the special grand jury adjourned last night. Their report was short and formal in character, except for the intimation that the jurors believed the plot to be more widespread than was indicated by the six indictments returned. All the indicted persons spent the night in the county jail.

One more man was arrested late tonight in connection with the attempted packing of the Cronin jury, and two more arrests are expected before midnight. The barber, Edward Hoagland, who is one of the men who confessed, told a reporter today that Kavanaugh and O'Dobnell had drawn him into the business. He says he revealed nothing to the authorities until confronted by his own mother, who had inadvertently admitted that her son had a hand in the aftair.

IT BURNED LIKE A TINDER BOX.

The firemen, despairing of saving it, directed their efforts to the adjoining property. Many of the occupants of the neighboring dwellings were already awake, and the police proceeded to arouse those who were sleeping. The three-story frame structure No. 353, Schermenhorn street, adjoining the church on the east, was the first to take fire, and No. 355, a similar structure followed. No. 357 was also damaged. On the west side of the church the flames extended to two brick dwellings, and on the opposite sihe of Schermerhorn street, a row of three-story brick dwellings numbered 338 to 348 suffered from intense heat. The window glass was broken and the woodwork scorched. The residents of the neighborhood, awakened, either by or by pounding of police upon their doors be came frightened, and rushed out half dressed or in their night clothes, and the police had great difficulty in assuring them that they were in no danger. Fortunately there was no loss of lite or limbs. The police carried out one old lady of 80 years from No. 337 Schermerhorn street, and placed her in a house at a safe distance. All the other immates were able to care for themselves. But while the firemen and police worked for the salvation of the property and persons,

Dr. Talmage was on the scene soon after the first alarm, and did not leave until he had seen the editice, which had been his pride, laid in ashes. Then he returned sorrowfully home. All day Itoday crowds visited the spot and gazed upon the ruins. The origin of the fire is unknown. Indeed, history tells us that there were cases where men came up and only had strength just to grasp the goal and then fall dead. Now, says this apostle, making allusion to those very games, we are all to run the race, not to crawl it, not to walk it—but "run the race set before us, looking unto Jesus," and Just as in the olden times, a man would stand at the end of the road with a beautiful garland that was to be put around the head or brow of the successful put around the head or brow of the successful racer, so the Lord Jesus Christ stands at the racer, so the Lord Jesus Christ stands at the end of the Christian race with the garland of eternal life, and may God grant that by His holy spirit we may so run as to obtain. The distinguished Welliston, the chemist, was asked where his laboratory was, and the was asked where his laboratory was, and the inquirers expected to be shown some large apartment filled with very expensive apparatus; but Welliston ordered his servant to bring on a tray a few glasses and a retort, and he said to the inquirers: "That is all my laboratory. I make all my experiments with those." Now, I know that there are a great many who take a whole library to express their theology. They have so many theories on ten thousand things; but I have to say that all my theology is compassed in these three words: "Looking unto Jessus," and when we can understand the height and the depth and the length and the breadth and the infinity and the immensity of that passage we can understand all.

I remark in the first place, we must look to Christ as our personal Savior. Now, you know as well as I that man is only a blasted rum of what he once was. There is not much difference between a vessel coming out of Liverpool harbor, with pennants flying and the deck crowded with good cheer, and the guns booming, and that same vessel driving against Long island coast, the drowning passengers ground to pieces amid the timbers of the broken-np steamer, as there is between man as he came as well as I that man is only a blasted ruin of what he once was. There is not much difference between a vessel coming out of Liverpool. Indoor, with pennants flying and the deck crowded with good cheer, and the guns booming, and that same vossel diving against Long island coast, the drowning passengers ground to pieces amid the timbers of the broken-np steamer, as there is between man as he came from the hands of God, equipped for a grand and glorious voyage, but afterward, through the plotage of the devil, tossed and driven and crushed, the coast of the near future streen with the fragments of an awful and eternal shipwreck. Our body is wrong. How easy it is ransacked of disease. Our mind is wrong, How hard it is to remember and how easy to forget. The whole nature disordered, from the crown of the head to the sole of the foot-wounds, bruises, putrelying sores. "All have sinned and come short of the glory of God," "By one man sin entered into the world and death by sin, and so death has passed upon all men, for that all have sinned." There is in Brazil a plant they call the "marderer," for the simple reason that it is so poisonous it kills almost everything it touches. It begins to wind around the root of the troe, and, commy up to the branches, killing the tree as it goes along. When it has come to the tip end of the branch the tree is dead. Its seeds fall to the ground and start other plants just as murderous.

And so it is with sin. It is a poisonous plant that was planted in our souls as long while ago, and it comes winding about the body and the mind and the sonl, poisoning, poisoning, poisoning, poisoning, poisoning, poisoning—thilling, killing, killing, as it goes. Now, there would be an need of my discourse in the plants just as murderous.

And so it is with sin. It is a poisonous plant that was planted in our souls as long while ago, and it comes winding about the body and the mind and the sonl, poisoning, poisoning, poisoning, poisoning—thilling, killing, killing, as it goes. Now, there would be mon

there rolls and reverberates a song of salvation. Louder than all the voices of bondage is the trumpet of God's deliverance, sounding: "Oh, Israel, thou hast destroyed thyself, but in me is thy help." At the barred gates of our dungeon the conqueror knocks and the hinges creak and grind at the swinging open. The famine struck pick up the manna that falls in the wilderness and the floods clap their hands, saying: "Drink, oh thirsty soul," and live forever," and the feet that were torn and deep cut on the rocky bridle path of sin now come into a smooth place, and the dry alders crackle as the panting hart breaks through to the water brooks, and the dark night of the soul begins to grow gray with the morning, yea to purple, yea to flame, from horizon to horizon. The batteries of temptation silenced. Troubles that fought against us captured and made to fight on our side. Not as a result of any toil or trouble on our part, but only as a result of "looking unto Jesus." "But what do you mean by looking unto Jesus!" some one inquires. I mean faith. "What do you mean by believing?" I mean this: If you promise to do a certain thing for me, and I have confidence in your veracity—if you say you will give me such a thing and I need it very much, I come in confidence that you are an honest man and will do what you say. "The Lord Jesus Christ says: "You are in need of pardon and life and heaven, you can have them if you come and get them." You say: "I can't come and ask first. I am afraid you won't give it to me." Then you are unbellering. But you say: "I will come and ask. I know, Lord Jesus, thou art in earnest about this matter. I come asking for pardon. Thou hast promised to give it to me, thou wilt give it to me, thou wilt give it to me, thou hast give it to me." That is faith. Do you see it yet! "Oh." says some one, "I can't understand it." No man ever did, without divine help. Faith is the gift of God. You say: "That throws the responsibility off my shoulders." No. Faith is the gift of God. You say: "That throws the re

All over glorious is my Lord, He must be loved and yet adored; His worth if all the nations knew, Sure the whole earth would love him, too.

His worth if all the nations knew,
Sure the whole earth would love him, too.

I remark again, that we must look to Jesus as an example. Now, a mere copyist, you know is always a failure. If a painter go to a portfolio or a gallery of art, however exquisite, to get his idea of the natural world from these pictures, he will not succeed as well as the artist who starts out and dashes the dew from the grass and sees the mourning just as God built it in the clouds, or poured it upon the mountain, or kindled it upon the sea. People wondered why Turner, the famous English painter, succeeded, so well in sketching a storm upon the ocean. It remained a wonder until it was found out that several times he had been lashed to the deck in the midst of a tempest and then looked out upon the wrath of the sea, and coming home to his studio, he pictured the tempest. It is not the copyist who succeeds, but the man who confronts the natural world. So if a man in literary composition resolves that he will imitate the smoothness of Addison, or the rugged vigor of Carlyle, or the weirdness of Spenser, or the epigrammatic style of Ralph Waldo Emesson, he will not succeed as well as that man who cultures his own natural style. What is true in this respect is true in respect to character. There were men who were fascinuted with Lord Byron. He was lame and wore a very large collar. Then flames were first seen. The loss on the church building, including the organ, which was one of the finest in the country, is $130,000. It is said to be covered by insurance in a number of companies. The loss on the adjoining property is small.

THE DOCTOR'S SERMON.

Although Dr. Talmadge was prevented from preaching, owing to the destruction of the tabernacle, he gave your correspondent the following sermon, which he intended to deliver.

In the Christian life we must not go slipshed. This world was not made for us to rest in. In time of war you will find around the streets of some city, far from the scene of conflict, men in soldier's uniform, who have a right to be away. They obtained a furlough and they are honestly and right-ously off duty; but I have to tell you that in this Christian conflict, between the first moment when we enlist under the banner of Christ, and the last moment in which we shout the victory, there never will be a single instant in which we will have a right to be off duty.

Paul throws $\frac{1}{2}$ and the last moment in which we shout the victory, there never will be a single instant in which we will have a right to be games that sent a man on a race, with such a stretch of nerve and muscle, that Among lawyers, he showed how lawyers should act. Among farmers, he showed how farmers should act. Among rulers, he showed how rulers should act. Critics tried to find in his conversation or sermons something unwise or unkind or inaccurate: but they never found it. They watched him, oh how they watched him! He never went into a house but they knew it, and they knew how long he stayed, and when he came out, and whether he had wine for dinner. Slander twisted her whips and wagged her poisoned tongue and set her traps, but could not catch him. Little children rushed out to get from him a kiss, and old men tottered out to the street corner to see children rushed out to get from him a kiss, and old men tottered out to the street corner to see him pags.

Do you want an illustration of devotion, behold him whole nights in prayer. Do you want an example of suffering, see his path across Palestine tracked with blood. Do you want an example of patience, see him abused and never giving one sharp retort. Do you want an example of industry, see him without an idle moment. Do you want a specimen of sacrifice, look at his life of self denial, his death of ignominy, his sepulcher of humitiation. Oh what an example! His feet wounded, yet he submitted to the journey. His back lacerated, and yet he carried the cross. Struck, he never struck back again. Condemned, yet he rose higher than his calluminators, and with wounds in his hands and wounds in his feet and wounds on his brow and wounds in his side, he ejaculated: "Father forgive them, they know not what they do." Ah, my brethren, that is the pole by which to set your compass, that is the headland by which to steer, that is the example that we ought all to follow. How it would smooth out the roughness in our disposition, and the world would se impressed by the transformation and would say: "I know what is the matter with that man, he has been with Jesus and has learned of him." old men tottered out to the street corner to see will kindle up the worst darkness. There is a harbor from the roughest ocean. You need and may have the Savior's sympathy. You cannot get on this way. I see your trouble is wearing you out body and mind and soul. I come on no fool's errand today. I come with a balm that can heal any wound. Are you sick? Jesus was sick. Are you weary? Jesus was weary. Are you persecuted? Jesus was persecuted. Are you bereaved? Did not Jesus weep over Lazarus? Oh, yes, like a roe on the mountains of Bether Jesus comes bounding to your soul today. There is one passage of Scripture, every word of which is a heart throb: "Come unto me, all ye who are weary and heavy laden, and I will give you rest." Then there is another passage just as good: "Cast thy burden on the Lord and He will sustain thee." Oh, there are green pastures where the heavenly shepherd leads the wounded and sick of the flock.

The Son of God stands by the tomb of Lazarus and will gloriously break it open at the right time. Genesaret cannot toss its waves so high that Christ cannot walk them. The cruse of oil will multiply into an illimitable supply. After the orchard seems to have been robbed of all its fruit, the Lord has one tree left, full of golden and ripe supply. The requiem may wail with gloom and with death; but there cometh after a while a song, a chant, an anthem, a battle march. a jubliee, a coronation. Oh, do you not feel the breath of Christ's sympathy now, you wounded ones, you troubled ones? If you do not, I would like to tell you of the chaplain in the army who was wounded so he could not walk, but he heard at a distance among the dying a man who said: "Oh, my God!" he said to himself. "I must help that man though I can't walk."

So he rolled over and rolled through his own blood, and rolled on over many of the slain, walk."

So he rolled over and rolled through his own blood, and rolled on over many of the slain, until he came where this poor fellow was suffering, and he preached to him the comfort of the gospel, and with his own wound he seemed to soothe that man's wound. It was sympathy going out toward an object most necessitous, and one that he could easily understand. And so it is with Christ, though wounded all over himself, he hears the cry of our repentance, the cry of our bereavement, the cry of our overty. the cry of our wretchedness, and he says: "I must go and help that soul," and he rolls over with wounds in head, wounds in hands, wounds in feet, toward us, until he comes just where we are weltering in our own blood, and he puts his arm over us—and I see it is a wounded arm and a weunded hand—and as he throws his arm over us I hear him say: "I have loved thee with an everlasting love."

Again, we must look to Christ as our final So he rolled over and rolled through his own

Again, we must look to Christ as our final rescue. We cannot with these eyes, however good our sight may be, catch a glimpse of the heavenly land for which our souls long. But I have no more doubt that beyond the cold river there is a place of glory and of rest, than river there is a place of glory and of rest, than we have that across the Atlantic ocean there is another continent. But the heavenly land and this land stand in mighty contrast. This is barrenness and that verdue. These shallow streams of earth which a thirsty ox might drink dry, or a mule's hoof trample into mire, compared with the bright, crystalline river from under the throne, on the banks of which river the armies of heaven may rest, and into whose clear flood the trees of life dip their branches.

These instruments of earthly music, so easily racked into discord, compared with the easily racked into discord, compared with the harps that thrill with eternal raptures, and the trumpets that are so musical that they wake the dead. These streets along which we go panting in summer heat or shivering in winter's cold, and the poor man carries his hyrden and the poor man carries his burden and the vagrant asks for alms, and along which shuffle the feet of pain and want and wee, compared with those streets that sound forever with the feet of joy and holi-ness, and those walls made out of all manner of precious stones, the light intershot with re-flections from jasper and chrysolite and topaz and sardonyx and beryl and emerald and

Oh, the contrast between this world, where Oh, the contrast between this world, where we struggle with temptation that will not be conquered, and that world where it is perfect joy, perfect holiness and perfect rest! Said a little blind child: "Mamma, will I be blind in heaven?" "Oh, no, my dear," replied the mother, "you won't be blind in heaven." A little lame child said: "Mamma, will I be lame in heaven?" "No," she replied, you won't be lame in heaven?" Why, when the plainest Christian pligrim arrives at the heavenly gate it opens to him, and as the angels come down to escort him in, and they spread the banquet, and they keep festival over the august arrival, and Jesus comes with a crown and says, "Wear this," and with a palm and says, "Wave this," and points to a throne and says, "Mount this." Then the old citizens of heaven come around to hear the newcomer's recital of deliverance wrought for him, and as the newly arrived soul tells of the grace that pardoned and the more vone. heavenly gate it opens to him, and as the angels come down to escort him in, and they spread the banquet, and they keep festival over the august arrival, and Jesus comes with a crown and says, "Wear this," and with a palm and says, "Wear this," and with a palm and says, "Mount this." Then the old citizens of heaven come around to hear the newcomer's recital of deliverance wrought for him, and as the newly arrived soul tells of the grace that pardoned and the mercy that saved him, all the inhabitants shout the praise of the king, crying, "Praise Him!" Praise Him!" Quaint John Bunyan caught a glimpse of consummation when he said: "Just as the gates were opened to let in the man, I looked in after them, and behold the city shone like the sun; the streets were also paved with gold and in them walked many men with crowned.

and in them walked many men with crowns on their heads, and golden harps to sing praises withal. And after that they shut up the gates, which when I had seen I wished myself among them."

Atlanta Always Ahead.

The latest invention has been made by J. S.

machinery for applying the same to cotton bagging or other fabrics for covering cotton, whereby the same is made fire-proof, water-proof, and double as heavy as the goods were before treatment, and at a cost of about two cents per pound for the additional will meet the expectations of the most exacting, and he ought to have a fair idea of what the public will expect of a new invention, as he has been granted awenty-eight patents by the United States since the war, many of which he has traveled extensively on. But this last one ought to be operated from Atlanta through a strong company.

Cronin and Ireland.

The trouble in Chicago calls for more than a passing notice. It is a trouble that goes pretty much to the root of matters, and if it is not cured, and that promptly and radically, the whole country will be disgraced.

The Cronin murder has attracted a large share of the public attention, and the people everywhere have been interested in a solution of the mystery. The courts of Chicago have been trying to deal with the matter, but they seem to have been handicapped from the start. What was published yesterday shows that the friends of those who murdered Cronin are bold, powerful and active, even if they are not cunning, and their efforts as thus far exposed. show that nothing will be left undone to cover the tracks of the asssasin.

It has been hinted that the murder of Dr. Crouin was intended to help Ireland. But the effect of it has been deadlier to the Irish cause than anything that could be conceived of. The Parnell campaign. which began so brilliantly a year or so ago, has been absolutely killed by the Cronin assassination, and the Irish cause is more hopeless now than it has ever been. All because a few fools and brutes in America are determined to cripple their friends and misrepresent Ireland.

The Cotton Movement.

The New York Financial Chronicle, summarizing its reports, says that the weather has been quite favorable during the month

The precipitation has not been generally excessive, although in the first week, in portions of Texas, Tennessee and Florida, and from the 20th to the 24th along the Atlantic and in sections of the gulf states and Arkansas, heavy rains were reported. In fact, the rainfall in the Atlantic states has been much below what it was in September of last year, while in Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas the precipitation has been but little, if any, greater than the average for a series of years. The temperature, although low at times has been quite satisfactory, averaging higher almost everywhere than it did in the corresponding month a year ago. Light frosts are noted in some localities, no damage resulting.

The plant has made good progress for the season of the year. In portions of Arkansas, Tennessee and Mississippi, and to a limited extent in a few other districts, damage by worms is reported. The general condition of the crop, however, is apparently higher than on October 1st of any of the last six years. Picking has made excellent progress and notwithstanding the lateness of the crop a larger amount has been marketed than for the same time a year ago.

These conclusions of course cover the period up to the close of September. Since that date the weather has favored a rapid gathering of cotton. During the past week frosts are reported in districts as far south as Alabama, but we hear of no material damage therefrom.

In its weekly review of the cotton market, the Chronicle says that for the week ending last Friday the total receipts have reached 273,609 bales, against 245,374 last week and 191,833 bales the previous week; making the total receipts since the first of September, 1889, 991,782 bales, against 744,143 bales for the same period of 1888, showing an increase since September 1st, 1889, of 247,639 bales.

The exports for the week reach a total of 144,417 bales, of which 121,821 were to Great Britain, 11,568 to France and 11,028 to the rest of the continent. The total sales for forward delivery for the week are 601,900 bales. For immediate delivery the total sales foot up 9,697 bales, including 7,493 for export and 2,204 for consumption.

The imports into continental ports have been 16,000 bales. There is an increase in the cotton in sight of 182,263 bales as compared with the same date of 1888, a decrease of 557,989 bales as compared with the corresponding date of 1887, and a decrease of 79,097 bales as compared with 1886.

The old interior stocks have increased during the week 22,748 bales, and are 39,916 bales less than at the same period last year. The receipts at the same towns have been 19,365 bales less than the same week last year, and since September 1st the receipts at all the towns are 30,384 bales more than for the same time in 1888. The total receipts from the plantations since September 1st, 1889, are 1,090,543 bales; in 1888 were 868,435 bales, in 1887 were 1,338,588 bales. Although the receipts at the outports the past week were 273,609 bales, the actual movement from the plantations was 308,053 bales, the balance going to increase the stocks at the interior towns. Last year the receipts from the plantations for the same week were 292,101 bales and for 1887 they were 308,457

The increase in amount in sight as compared with last year, is 229,076 bales, the decrease as compared with 1887 is 270,447 bales and the increase over 1886 is 178,397

The Chronicle says that the speculation in cotton for future delivery at New York has been much more active for the week under review, showing at times considerable excitement-and prices have made a material advance. The weather turned cold throughout the country on Sunday, and apprehensions of a killing frost caused on Monday an active demand to cover contracts, on which the distant deliverles made a con-

On Tuesday there were reports of killing frosts at Charlotte, in North Carolina, and at Mobile, in Alabama; but as the minimum the freezing point at Mobile, and as private advices generally said that little or no dam age had been done, the market on Tuesday was halting and closed irregular. On Wednesday, however, there was renewed buoyancy, and a very large business was done, a slight rise bringing in "stop orders," which promoted a further advance.

On Thursday the market opened a little sluggish, making but a slight advance in response to a much dearer Liverpool report, but further improving after the chief points of the bureau report were made public.
Friday the course of the Liverpool market, in showing a decline, greatly disappointed our bulls and the market fell off at the first call 5 to 7 points.

Some further decline was followed by a partial recovery. An exceptional pressure was felt in October contracts, looking like "corner." Cotton on the spot was quoted to lower on Tuesday, and the demand continued very small.

Thursday the tone of the market was rather firmer, but there was announced a revision of quotations in which high grades were reduced 1 to 7-16c and some low grades 1-16c. Friday the market was steady at 10gc for middling uplands.

The Chronicle's reports from the south show that the weather has been dry almost everywhere, and in consequence picking has made excellent progress. Frosts are reported in a number of localities, but without material damage.

Indianapolis is now a democratic city, and we are moved to congratulate the president and his esteemed private secretary.

It is said that Prince Bismarck is growing very feeble. His son, however, is strong, and will be able to make the emperors and kings stand around for many years to come.

THE typical republican of Ohio is named Topp. Because he was caught in the act of trying to swindle the state, his friends say he was insane. This style of insanity seems to be very popular with leading republicans.

DOES Editor Halstead think the ballot forgeries are any worse than those which he circuated about the democratic candidate for gov ernor?

EDITORAL COMMENT.

JAMES WHITCOMB RILEY, the poet, was overcome by nervous prostration at Akron, Ohio, ast week, and had to cancel his lecture dates.

THOMAS NELSON PAGE has declined the editorship of a Chicago magazine. He prefers to write stories and make the magazines pay for them.

THE REV. ALFRED RHODUS was arrested the other day in New Orleans because he was drunk and was sailing around town with two pet bull-dogs. Mr. Rhodus is very indignant.

THE SOUTH AMERICANS stick to girls for street car conductors. They show good judgment, and their street car methods should be introduced n this country without any unnecessary delay.

At TICONDEROGA, NEW YORK, last Thurs day, some laborers digging a sewer struck a tomb stone. At the bottom was found a coffin containing human bones. When the stone was washed off the inscription showed the remains to be those of Lord Howe, the British colonel who was killed at the battle of Ticondoroga in 1758.

PEOPLE HERE AND THERE.

ALDRICH.-Thomas Bailey Aldrich once loss his position on the New York Home Journal because he smoked. The new proprietor requested him to stop smoking, and Mr. Aldrich replied: "Theu, sir, I insist that you engage an-other editor."

RIDDLEBERGER.-Ex-Senator Riddleberger says that he will make the red-hottest campaign of his life against Mahone. RIGHSTON.-Mr. Righston, of Shepherstown

West Virginia, is the only surviving member of John Brown's gang.

HINTON.-John Hinton, a Pennsylvanian, is said to be the ablest soldier in Asia. He commands the district of Cabal, lives in a palace, and is very wealthy. ASTOR .- Mr. W. W. Astor is reported to have said at a recent banquet, that if necessary he would pay for the world's fair himself, provided it did not cost over $20,000,000. The temperance apostles should get after Mr. Astor.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

ATLANTA, October 13.—Editors Constitution: Appeals to the charitable are often seen in your valuable paper. Hoping this will arrest the attention and move the hearts of some of your numer one readers. I state facts as they have come under my observation. There is a family in this town, consisting of mother, grown daughter and two small children, in dire need. The mother and daughter worked at Barwald's until stekness overtook the daughter and the mother was obliged to care for her. That young girl, eighteen years old, has been prostrated by fever and something like white swelling in one knee for seven or eight weeks; able to lie in one position only. Her sufferings were terrible. Friday, for the first time in all those weeks, she asked for food. The poor mother had nothing in the house but corn bread. Think of that you, who know not want. Rent is due; the landlord is pressing his claims. What is to become of this class of God's creatures? The family is named Billings, and can be found at 52 Johnson street, near the plow factory.

Dr. Armstrong began his lecture by stating that he based what he had to say on the words of St. Paul, "I speak to wise men, judge ye what I say." He showed that St. Paul was not afraid to have the doctrines he preached examined by the closes scrutiny, and all Christianity must attain the position which St. Paul, in the passage quoted, occu-pied. His subject would be, he said, the selection which religion sustains toward the modern methods pied. His subject would be, he said, the selection which religion sustains toward the molern methods of thought. He told how there had been in all ages the methods of thought, the subjective method. The subjective method and the objective method. The subjective method and the objective method. The subjective method is with the subjective method in the subjective method is which facts all in nature were made to comply, as an illustration, he took the Greek belief, that the circle was the most perfect figure and the influence they drew that the mevements of all nature must be circular. The other method instead of beginning with an assumption commenced with a known fact and went back asking three questions. What? And how? And when?

Dr. Armstrong said that much that for ages had been accepted as true religion failed before the three quest ons assuow fades before the sun. He claimed also that the common sense of the American people would winnow the truth from the chaff and would leave a religion on which a man could build his faith and which would stand the test of the three great questions. How? What and Why?

For over an hour Dr. Armstrong kept his audience deeply interested. Next Sunday he will lecture on the Genesis or Origin of Religion.

The Sam Hill Tragedy Recalled by the Death of His Wife.

The Sam Hill tragedy comes to the surface

Sam Hill's history is well-known throughout the south. Years ago he appeared in Atlanta a well dressed young man of fine appearance, and soon became a favorite socially and with the boys upon the streets. Later he became acquainted with Miss Toccoa Spinks, one of the handsomest young ladies then known in Atlanta. She was a great favorite in her social circles, and Hill was desperately smitten with her. She, too, was smitten with Hill, and a wedding was the result. For a few years they lived happily together, and then the beautiful wife went wrong. Hill believed that Simmons was responsible for his degradation, and upon sight killed him. The murder happened in the National hotel salon. Sam Hill's history is well-known throughout the

They do not credit half the stories current today, but believe fully in what the major says. The guard around his house remained until after the major was upon the train bound for Augusta in custody of Sheriff Shur-

And the sheriff is being censured.
Cody's friends say that Shurley has been too lenient with the prisoner, and one of them even goes too far in his statements.

In the conversation had with McGregor last night he recounted his trouble with Cody from the inception to the killing. McGregor is a handsome man, well educated, and a fluent, pleasant talker. He is thoroughly satisfied with what he has done, and says that he feels at ease for the first time in years. The major denies most emphatically in years. The major denies most emphatically that Mrs. Dubose is in any way mixed up in the killing, and asserts most positively

AUGUSTA, Ga., October 13.-[Special.]-Major Charles E. The party breakfasted at the Arrington hotel, after which they went to the at the Arlington hotel, after which they went to the city jail where McGregor will be confined until the next session of Warren superior court. A telegram was received by Sheriff Shurley from Judge Lumpkin, last night in Warrenton, directing that McGregor be brought to Augusta. This is said to have been in accordance with McGregor's wishes. Though Cody's relatives as d there was no assault to be feared from them. Guiside parties and McGregor friends felt that this resolve might be changed after a little while and that when least expected there would be an attack on the jail and McGregor would be riddled with bullets or lynched. With this dread possibility always before them it would have been a state of constant and herrible suspense with McGregor's family and for their peace of mind as well as his own safety he favored the removal to Augusta. Here he is safe from harm and both he and his family c'n breathe easier. The people of War renton also feel relieved now that there is no possibility of another bloody chapter in this famous case. Major McGregor is comfortably installed in the jail. A room specially fitted up for his comfort will be his home for several months to come. He was seen by your correspondent, but said he did not care to add anything more to the very full accounts already published of the affair. He read the account in today's Construction, and though alleging that a good deal of it, which had been gathered by your correspondent in the community, was pure romance and groundless, gassin, he did not feel that the newspapers were the place in which to argue his case, and the facts would all come out when the case was heard in court. A MORGAN COUNTY FOX HUNT.

Fifteen Well-Trained Hounds Follow the

Hunters. Madison, Ga., October 13.—[Special.]—Friday night a party of gentlemen left the city at eight o'clock, and rode out to the farm of Mr. L. D. Chambers on a fox huaff. The party consisted of Colonel W, A. Broughton, Messrs. L. H. Foster, A. W. Foster, Drs. R. Webb Willis and John L. Stokes, W. J. Orr, C. A. Sanders, Shepherd Baldwin and others, all mounted on spirited animals. About freen well-trained hounds followed close to the beels of the horses, and the shrill blast of the hunters' horn was answered by a yell of Impatience from the pack. The night was beautiful, the soft, mellow rays of the moon shedding a lovely light over all nature.

A ride of about four miles brought the party to the hunting grounds, and the dogs were soon scenting around for the trail of old reynard. After some time the dogs struck the trail, and made off at a rapid gait. They were blown off, however, as they took the back track. Having been started in the right direction, their yelps grew louder, and the enthusiasm of the hunters are high.

After a fifty-five minute race, old reynard was captured in a cotton field, and proved to be a large one of the gray species. Charlie Sanders captured the "bush," and ex hibited his trophy on our streets thus morning. This royal sport is indulged in by a number of our citizens, and some successful chases have been cajoyed recently. President Broughton, of the Morgan county alliance, and well known in alliance circles, is a great lover of the sport, and has a well trained pack of blooded hourds.

Macon, Ga., October 13.—[Special.]—The city council some months ago passed an ordinance requiring property holders to pave sidewalks about their paymises. The defendants think the penalty unjust, because brick are difficult and high to get. Many have paved, however. A large number of citizens have filed their bonds, and cer-tionaried the case to Judge Gustin, of the superior court.

The Case Against the Topas Cinchona Cordial Company Amounts to Nothing.

The suit against the Topaz company was dismissed Saturday. It seems that the whole thing grew ont of a misunderstanding. The company was not satisfied with the goods shipped by the plaintief. Dr. Ewbank was away, and as he alone knew the facts about the order, the treasurer declined to pay until his return. The attorney then spoke of suit. The treasurer of the company told him to sue, he could get nothing—meaning that the account was not just. WHO WILL GET IT.

A Popular Grocer on Peachtree Street Offer $25.00 For the Best Loaf of Bread Made of

Mr. J. J. Duffy, one of the most popular retail grocers in the country, comes to the front this morning and offers $25 for the best loaf of bread made ent of Duffy's Superlative flour, and exhibited at the coming Piedmont exposition. This is quite a liberal offer, and will, no doubt stimulate a great many people in the culinary line. The flour that Mr. Duffy has been selling—Duffy's Superlative—is said by those who have tried it, to be the very best. This being the case, Mr. Duffy, in making this offer to the ladies of Atlanta, will doubtless secure a large patronage for his flour. It is to be remembered that this loaf of bread is to be made only from Duffy's Superlative, and no other flour will be brought into competition. Mr. Duffy is not atraid to compote with other flours, but feeling that his flour is the best of all, offers $25 as a prize to Mr. J. J. Duffy, one of the most popular flour is the best of all, offers $25 as a prize to the one making the finest loaf of bread out of it.

It might be added in this connection that Mr. Duffy has been styled one of the leading retail grocers of Georgia. He keeps everything that is usually kept in a grocery store, and sells his goods at a reasonable profit. Being located on one of the finest streets in the city, Peachtree, he has a fine trade among the best class of people.

Now young ladies and old ladies, all who cook and all who eat, remember that Mr. Duffy offers the handsome sum of $25 for the best loaf of bread made out of Duffy's Superlative flour, exhibited at the exposition company. The company will appoint judges to decide the matter.

The treatise fully describes the kinds of tin roofs, how to put tin together, and the special advantages of standing seam roof, the allowances for a greater amount of expansion and contraction over that of the flat seam. Also treats of the gutters, fire walls, soldering, painting, suggestions, as builders' and carpenters' specifications, etc. This little work has already entered upon its fourth edition, evidencing the fact of its merit, and the favor which it has met at the hands of the trade. Atlanta is promised an excellent week at the operanouse for four nights and two matiness We have the Jules Grau Opera company, and then comes "Held by the Enemy."

Manager Grau comes this year with a company manager Grau comes this year with a company which far excels anything he has ever bandled. It is doubtful, indeed, if the company has its superior outside of New York. The principals are all well known and prominent people. Its chorus is said to be splendid and well haudled, and the repertoire includes three instropolitan successes.

Miss Marie Greenwood, Miss Alice Hosmer, Miss

the comedian. The male portion of the cast includes Messrs, Muske, Walker, Gulbersen, Gurville, Manager Grau, guided by past experience, as also fortified his troupe on two other special and important points. His female chorus has been doubled and is composed now of sixteen rosychecked young girls, chosen for their personal beauty and good voices. The second point is that he has endeavored to equal in richness of costumes any opera company which has ever visited the south. No money has been spared to costume and equip richly the new operas.

With such elements of success Manager Grau comes confidently before our people and has no doubt that Atlanta will confirm the favorable criticisms that he has received everywhere since he

A great many beautiful things will be shown a the Piedmont exposition this year, but nothing will equal the Sweet Bouquet Cigarettes, exhibited by dealers everywhere. Five in a package for 5 cents

200,000 Estey Organs have been manufactured. Think of it. Try and realize what it means. It is one ergan finished every week since Noah built

Do you suppose it would be possible, with a suff. cient number of men, to build a fine Reed Organ all compile in seven hours? No doubt it would, but it would certainly require a large force of skilled mer to do it. Now, if the Estey Organ company had taken so long a time as seven hours they would have had to begun before Columbus discovered America in order to complete 200,000 organs in 1888. They have actually been building their famous Reed Organs forty years, averaging about one organ in thirty-five minutes. And not building them only. They have sold them.

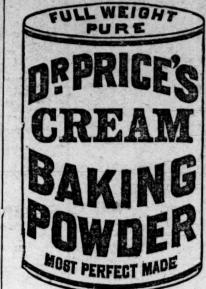

No other organ can show such sales. What doe it prove? Simply that the ESTEY Organ is the favorite, that it is the best value for the money invested, that it has been the choice with the majority of persons who have purchased organs.

You can't make any mistake up choosing an ES TEY, for the great majority is with you. Go to the ESTEY Organ Co.'s ware-rooms, co Marietta and Broad streets, Atlanta, Ga., and you can be suited in price and terms. sept 18—tf
